

Chrysler seeks link with port

By GARY SCHNEIDER
Press-Record Editor

A surprising announcement — that the giant Chrysler Motor Co. automotive plant in Fenton, Mo., is expected to soon become a subzone of the Granite City-based Foreign Trade Zone 31 — was made to Quad-City area executives during a boat trip up the Mississippi River Thursday evening.

Carl Ranft, executive director of the Tri-City Regional Port, told approximately 200 persons on the boat trip that Chrysler "came to us" and requested that its giant plant become a subzone of the local Foreign Trade Zone.

Foreign Trade Zone status could aid assembly plant

Ranft said that the Tri-City Regional Port District subsequently submitted an application to the Foreign Trade Zones Board (FTZB) requesting subzone status for the automotive assembly plant.

Ranft said Friday, "After a careful evaluation by the port, it was determined to be a worthwhile project which would contribute to national and area-wide economic betterment and, therefore, the port applied to the FTZB for the 'subzone designation.' In order to maximize the economic benefits to the area, the port district moved expeditiously on the subzone request from Chrysler."

Ranft also noted, "Chrysler's utilization of Foreign Trade Zone subzone procedures were only immediately available through the Tri-City Regional Port District, which is the only authorized zone within the St. Louis area."

The Foreign Trade Zone, first established here Sept. 6, 1977, allows products and parts to be shipped and stored duty-free until they leave the Trade Zone area. Essentially, the Foreign Trade Zones are treated by the government as parts of international soil, so products entering them are not

Labor Day Parade viewed by 4,000

"We were very pleased. It was an even better turnout than last year," Bob Means, a co-chairman of yesterday's Labor Day Parade, commented after the parade passed an estimated 4,000 persons on the route from downtown Granite City to Granite City High School South.

There were 35 units in the parade, including four bands, several floats, numerous marching units, autos, dignitaries, Shrine drill units and others.

Music was provided by the bands of Granite City High School North and South, the Ainad Shrine Oriental Band and Wanda's girls, an independent group, and the Musicians Local, which sponsored John Fornaszewski's Big Band Machine.

Leading the 35-minute procession along Madison Avenue were Parade Marshals Bob Means, Edwin Reiske and Jack Green.

Behind them came numerous dignitaries, including Mayor Paul Schuler, State Sen. Sam Vadala, State Representatives Sam Wolf and Jim McPike, parade queen Jaclyn Greer and others.

Highlights included the first place float of Steelworkers Local 4804, which was based on the theme "Reaganomics;" the marching unit of Steelworkers Local 67, which won a trophy for the greatest percentage of participation, and numerous other groups and exhibits. A trophy also went to the GCHS South Band for the best marching unit in the parade.

After the march, participants enjoyed refreshments in the parking lot of Bellemore Village Shopping Center before taking on the task of unseating the defending champion Carpenters in the tug-of-war. Winners in that event were the Steelworkers All-Stars and among the women, the NOW organization.

Reiske noted of the celebration, "It was even bigger and better than last year. I was very pleased."

Means added, "There was a considerable number of laid off employees participating also. I see the present economic conditions as bringing labor together — knitting us tighter."

$25 million lawsuit alleges fraud, bribery

Steelabrade Corp. of Granite City has filed a $25 million lawsuit against National Steel Corp., alleging fraud and bribery. It says the firm schemed to hamper its steel painting line in Granite City Steel's south works (the former General Steel plant).

A spokesman for the defendant said it will make no immediate comment on the suit.

Seeking a damage award by the U. S. Eastern Missouri District Court, Steelabrade relates that it for many years was active in processing and slitting primary and secondary steel produced by Granite City Steel, a division of National Steel.

Based on an April 24, 1979, lease of 100,000 square feet of space, Steelabrade borrowed $1,500,000 from Mercantile Trust Co. and installed equipment to coat steel to specifications outlined by National Steel, the suit contends. But the steelmaker later found it needed different standards, Steelabrade alleges.

The alleged error by National Steel rendered the paint line useless for National's purpose; to hide its mistake the steel producer plotted to destroy Steelabrade's business, Attorneys Michael H. Wetmore and Alan E. Popkin plan to argue.

The plaintiff claims National failed to live up to an agreement to allow Steelabrade first right of refusal on supplies of certain kinds of steel.

Instead, it alleges, the steelmaker allowed and encouraged its employees who controlled such sales to accept payoffs and bribes from others and divert the promised steel to other buyers who were willing to make payoffs.

Even after being told what was happening, National did nothing to deter the practice and permitted it to continue, the document says. It asserts, "Instead of giving the plaintiff additional slitting work to further support the construction of its paint line, defendant diminished the amount of slitting it did with the plaintiff so as to further reduce the amount of cash available to plaintiff during the construction."

"Ultimately, defendant put plaintiff on 'cash in advance' for all purchases of steel in a further effort to cut off plaintiff's ability to do business."

"Defendant withheld payments it owed to plaintiff for extremely long periods of time to deplete plaintiff's cash flow.

"Defendant removed material from plaintiff's warehouse and shipped it to others at great expense to the defendant, for the sole and only purpose of denying income to plaintiff to further reduce plaintiff's chance of survival."

"Defendant contacted customers of defendant's competitors for which

Record levels of lead launch investigation

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The highest level of lead pollution ever recorded in the state was reached in Granite City during the last four months in 1981, according to the newly released 1981 Illinois Annual Air Quality Report.

The city also again topped the state level for suspended particulates, which have been associated with increased respiratory disease and cancer.

More than four times the maximum lead standards set for state health protection were registered constantly at an air monitoring station at 15th Street and Madison Avenue during the last three months in 1981. That station also was in violation the first and third quarters in 1981.

One other monitoring station, 20th and Adams streets, exceeded the state lead standard during the second quarter.

State Air Monitoring Manager Dave Kolaz, of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) in Springfield, said a special state investigation has begun to test for possibly harmful lead levels in vegetation here. Test results on the various plants will be announced next week.

"We're looking to see if the lead violation was being taken up in the vegetation," Kolaz said. The result could result in human consumption of the pollutant. He called lead ingestion the "worst possible" manner for lead to enter the human body. However, he was hopeful that the test results will be negative.

According to background information in the annual air quality report, children are the most sensitive to lead poisoning effects, which include serious behavioral problems. The report cites documented cases in other areas where severe lead poisoning caused brain damage in children. Among other possible effects of low level exposure are interference with blood production and specific enzyme systems and kidney and nervous system cell damage.

The IEPA plans a soil sampling program in an area near the air monitoring site recording the largest violation. Aware of the lead problem in Granite City six months ago, the state conducted a soil sampling program then and found "no unusual levels" of lead present.

According to Kolaz, a group of investigators combed the files of the

Dignitaries view locks construction

"Jobs. That's what it's all about," summarized Carl Ranft, executive director of the Tri-City Regional Port, as the port and U.S. Corps of Engineers hosted a group of approximately 200 area businessmen and civic leaders on a barge trip up the Mississippi River from Granite City to the site of the new $780 million Alton Locks and Dam 26 construction Thursday afternoon.

Ranft said the new locks will not only employ hundreds of construction workers until completed, but will improve and speed the barge transportation industry along the Mississippi River, creating hundreds of permanent jobs in water-related shipping and businesses which rely on barges to keep transportation costs down and compete in tight economic markets.

He introduced James Peterson, chief of the Operations Division, U.S. Corps of Engineers, a chief coordinator of the Alton Locks construction project.

Peterson detailed the need for the new locks and dams. He noted that last month, 6.8 million tons of grain, fertilizer, oil and other products were shipped through the old Alton locks. Last year, barges carried 70 million tons of products through the decaying locks.

Tow boats waited a total of 6,300 hours last year to be locked through Alton "and that costs the national economy," Peterson stated.

As the barge carrying the area executives neared the construction site, Peterson explained that crews have, thus far, built 96 separate cells and dewatered them to begin construction on the Missouri side of the locks. Thus far, seven and one-half acres of the river bottom now is dry and work has begun on constructing the base of the locks inside that area, he noted.

The first stage of construction, costing $41 million, is underway. The second stage, the construction of constructing six and one-half gate bays, each 110 feet wide, for a total of $132 million. The second stage is to be completed by June, 1985, he noted.

Then, an even larger cofferdam, 112 by 110 feet, will be constructed in the middle of the river. The contract for that work is to be awarded by February 1984, and the work completed by February 1988, he noted. The cost, at this time, is unknown.

The final phase of construction will be closing of the Illinois side of the river and constructing two gate bays, the second being 600 by 100 feet in size, assuming that Congress grants approval for the second, smaller lock. "Personally, I think it is essential," Peterson stated.

He estimated the total project cost at $780 million, in 1982 dollars, and said the entire lock should be operational by April, 1989. Then, removal of the current lock two miles north of the construction area could be noted.

"This is a very expensive project being paid for by taxpayers, but the old structure (locks) is falling down. We are at large shipping from this week's products bound for export to other countries."

Ranft also announced that formation of an alliance between the Foreign Trade Zone at the Tri-City Regional Port and Chrysler Motor Company's Fenton auto assembly plant is becoming a reality, which should aid the entire metropolitan region. A separate story on that development appears on today's front page.

Investigation

Illinois Department of Public Health, Lead Poisoning Control Center, 4700 Nameoki Road, Friday to check for any relationship between the levels of lead in blood tests here and the levels of lead in the air.

Reached late Friday, an office spokesman refused to comment on the findings of the blood tests and referred questions to Springfield.

An inspector from the state's Region III Field Operations in Collinsville, Mo., will inspect the Granite City air quality, said another air monitoring station will be set up at 17th Street and Cleveland Boulevard to determine the source of lead violations.

The monitor will be installed near Taracorp Industries, 16th Street and Cleveland. Although, Kolaz said, the company is a suspected source, no official source is being cited.

According to the state air manager, Taracorp has taken several measures to supervise its operations in the area. Even if sources or monitoring efforts. "We've talked with Taracorp and asked for their records," Kolaz revealed.

Taracorp is located on the grounds of the former NL Industries (National Lead), which may be a contributing factor. NL Industries was not as careful as Taracorp, Kolaz contended, and old lead piles from old auto batteries and other materials may have been distributed by the wind, causing the violations.

Other factors, however, imply some other type of source, since a particularly high lead reading occurred when wind shifted the ground, "indicating it's not just being blown," Kolaz said. "It is a puzzle."

Lead level readings in the first three months of this year (the latest statistics available) at 15th Street and Madison Avenue show a January lead level more than twice the state limit, with February and March levels within state regulations.

Even if subsequent readings continue below violation standards, problems harbor and port costing $44 million.

Those on the barge were shown stakes marking the southern boundary of the proposed harbor and were told that plans are to move the eastern levee back 220 feet east, removing more than three million cubic feet of dirt. A new levee is to be constructed, utilizing more than one million cubic feet of earth.

In the 6,900-foot harbor, 2,000 feet will be used for a new cargo transfer facility and the remaining will be available for general barge floating. Plans are for construction to begin in about 10 years, after a new dike is constructed in Missouri to reduce silt in the St. Louis harbor.

"We have to look not at today, but 10 or 15 years down the line for our children," Ranft noted.

He said the site on the Chain of Rocks Canal, in Illinois, was selected by a regional group for the new harbor, because it already has all of the necessary facilities, including city water, electricity, rail service and adequate roads. "You've got something here to be proud of, nationally, and across the world."

"We've got the most powerful weapon in the world — food — and we don't know how to use it," Ranft contended. He said that 70 percent of the food is shipped from this week's products bound for export to other countries."

Ranft also announced that formation of an alliance between the Foreign Trade Zone at the Tri-City Regional Port and Chrysler Motor Company's Fenton auto assembly plant is becoming a reality, which should aid the entire metropolitan region. A separate story on that development appears on today's front page.

Lead violations exceeding twice the state standards — again the highest in the state — were recorded in 1980. Lead violations also occurred in 1979.

Designated, including President Bill Clinton, the lead level readings should be completed in about two months, Kolaz said.

The state took over the city air pollution monitors this year as part of a plan to fund funding participation. The Granite City Air Pollution Board has not held a meeting since last fall. In January, two of the five board members resigned, including President Bill Clinton. The members have not been replaced.

Justice, who initially was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, told police a rear tire on his auto began to wobble and he lost control of the car and hit a light pole. His car then struck a parked auto, belonging to Patricia A. Hopkins, 2540 Northridge, and crashed through the garage door at that address.

OWNER OF MACLAIR COMPANY IS KILLED

Ernest L. Doctor, 60, owner of the MacLair Asphalt Co., Fairmont City, which has done extensive paving work in the Quad-City area, was killed Saturday by a paving roller he was using to roll rock in the driveway of his home on Haury Road near O'Fallon. Weighing more than six tons, the roller left the driveway and struck him as it rolled down a steep hill. Mr. Doctor was killed instantly.

The funeral will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Collinsville, with burial at Catholic Cemetery.

MEET HERE TODAY ON OFFER TO MECHANICS

A meeting was still in progress late this morning at the Labor Temple in Granite City on terms of a possible settlement of the five-week-old strike by mechanics against the automobile agency garages in this region.

Members of the Madison-St. Clair counties' dealers' group approved a tentative agreement Friday, offering raises totaling $1.70 an hour over the next three years; 400 striking mechanics are to vote on the plan here today.

Regional workshops at 9 a.m. Wednesday at John A. Logan College, Carterville, Thursday at Parkland College, Champaign, and Friday at the Jacksonville mental health center will aid elementary and secondary school officials in applying for federal aid under the "block grant for education."

Despite admitting they were involved in fraudulent job placement schemes, several Illinois Job Service employees continue to work for the agency. Auditor General Robert Cronson said last week in criticizing the statewide Bureau of Employment Service.

ZONING BOARD CONDUCTS HEARING

The Madison County Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct an oversight hearing at 4241 Division St., Nameoki Township, Sept. 9 at 10:50 a.m.

The purpose of the hearing will be to consider a petition filed by William Smith, who has requested a permit to place a mobile home on the property for his family and son.

"Defendant threatened to evict plaintiff. The purpose and effect of the various steps were to crush and destroy plaintiff's business so that defendant's false representation and broken agreement with respect to the specification could be buried, hidden, obfuscated and masked in the rubble of plaintiff's business," the court document contends.

Count One alleges a breach of contract and seeks $2½ million actual and $2½ million punitive damages.

In the second count, asserting there were false or reckless representations, Steelbrade asks for $2½ million actual and $5 million punitive damages.

Count Three seeks $2½ million actual and $10 million punitive damages, alleging:

"After defendant refused to provide plaintiff with agreed-upon steel to be processed on the paint line, plaintiff sought and received orders from competitors of defendant and coated steel to the satisfaction of said competitors."

"Upon learning that plaintiff was successfully coating steel for competitors, defendant made its efforts to destroy plaintiff's business because the paint line—which defendant had caused plaintiff to construct to coat steel to a specification which defendant could not market—had become a competitive threat in that defendant's competitors found said product suitable and useful for their needs."

As background information, the suit says Steelbrade is a Missouri corporation with its principal place of business in St. Louis County and that National Steel of Pittsburgh has C.T. Corporation System, 314 N. Broadway, St. Louis, as a registered agent.

Founded by John Steelbrade in 1967, Steelbrade maintained offices in St. Louis County and a plant at 1003 Cleveland Blvd., Granite City, for marketing, warehousing and distribution. The company says it operated its steel warehousing business profitably and through the years accumulated a value of $1 million.

It bought primary coils of steel of various weights, types and sizes, charged duty for entry into the U.S. until they leave the country.

In Chrysler's case, if it becomes a Foreign Trade Zone, all foreign-made parts could be shipped by any transportation means into the Chrysler plant and there would be no duty levied on those parts until the car was about to leave the assembly line, and the Trade Zone, Chrysler said, would save large sums of money through later payment of the duties on those parts, Ranft explained.

There was hint in a St. Louis newspaper last week that the consideration of linking with an Illinois Foreign Trade Zone and St. Louis County Executive Gene McNary was quoted as saying that he was in favor of it, for the present time, but hopes Missouri could create its own FTZ in the near future and break the tie with Illinois.

Ranft's reaction to the Press-Record on the boat trip was that the Tri-City Regional Port District wants to improve the job market in the economy throughout the area. "That's what we were created for," he noted.

Asked his reaction of McNary's statement he would like to see Chrysler processed them and resold the steel, to its customers at a profit.

Steelbrade also purchased secondary steel coils and line stops, developed a market and customers, resold the steel and "enjoyed substantial profits" each year.

It also would slit coils pursuant to National Steel's directions and needs, at agreed-upon charges and fees.

The suit says National Steel asked it to build a paint line to paint and slit hot-rolled steel coils which would then be sold to customers and shaped by customers or their agents into pre-painted purins for use primarily in construction of steel buildings.

Granite City Steel was described in 1979 as the nation's third largest supplier of steel for building purins and girts, parts that form the framework of many structures.

At the time Steelbrade was approached about establishing the proposed paint line at facilities adjacent to State Street, it claims its business was "solid and viable," earning substantial profits each year.

The lawsuit states: "The parties recognized that the expense involved in development of a paint line would exceed $15 million and would require great skill, time and expertise."

"It was further understood that plaintiff lacked sufficient assets to pay for the construction and would be required to borrow the money in order to do so."

Defendant recognized that only on the strength of an agreement would plaintiff be able to borrow from a commercial lending institution in excess of $1½ million with which to build the proposed paint line.

As an inducement to enter into the venture, National Steel is said to have provided a survey of the market and a list of potential customers and product mix that could be expected.

It also is alleged to have agreed to supplement Steelbrade's cash flow during the construction of the paint line on all secondary steel and line stops generated at Granite City Steel.

National also is said to have agreed to pay for the 100,000 square-foot area was in lamentable physical condition; offered it at $500 monthly rent for 20 years, with no rent or affiliated charges to begin until the paint line was operative; and guaranteed it would provide certain minimum amounts of steel to be coated in the paint line during its first five years of operation.

Steelbrade said it asked for exact corrosion specifications and was told most of the steel processed would be sold to the Stran Co., a wholly-owned subsidiary of National. The plaintiff says it was advised that the specification was outlined in a Feb. 21, 1977, product list and was the only performance specification it would be required to satisfy.

The lease, purchase and supply agreement followed on April 28, 1979, and it was discussed in the Press-Record and other publications, including The Mill at Granite City Steel.

Steelbrade Chairman David N. Jones said at the time that it would lead to much larger operations for his firm, and GC Steel President James V. Stack said it would provide a new product line for his division as well as leading to further use of once-failed former Commonwealth plant facilities.

Steelbrade in the suit contends it agreed to bear all the cost of equipment and processes for operating the paint line and National in return agreed that it would be responsible for procuring and slitting of hot-rolled steel coils which would be at least 25,000 net tons for the first year and at least 37,000 net tons annually for each of the following four years.

The resulting $1,700,000 line, merging machinery made by more than 12 manufacturers, was regarded as relatively unique, the suit says, adding that Steelbrade spent more than $350,000 to renovate the plant area housing the paint line.

It says coils were processed and, when tested by National and its agents, met and exceeded the agreed-upon specifications. But National is then said to have ruled that the specifications were inadequate and that the coated material was not acceptable or usable for purins either by Stran or Stran's competitors.

"To be acceptable, the steel would have to be coated to a standard beyond the capabilities of the water-base paint and the paint line," the suit says.

National decided to destroy plaintiff's business," the suit says.

Steelbrade concludes that National's subsequent "course of action was calculated to and did have the effect of destroying plaintiff's business."

(Gross National Product) growth, higher federal unemployment taxes and other employers and a negative ripple effect on surrounding businesses.

"Employees, as well as businesses providing services and products to Chrysler Corporation at the St. Louis plant reside throughout the St. Louis metropolitan area. Chrysler Corporation had annual purchases of approximately $52 million from more than 300 suppliers in the state of Missouri in 1981 and approximately $239 million from more than 1,100 suppliers in the state of Illinois."

"The Tri-City Port District is one of the most active of the seven ports in the port of Metropolitan St. Louis, which is the largest inland port in the United States. The Chrysler Foreign Trade Zone subzone is only another example of the many services provided by the Tri-City Regional Port District," the statement concluded.

Asked on the boat trip if the Chrysler announcement was the "good news to him," he had been promising reporters lately, Ranft responded, "Part of it. There's more to come."

Man standing near train is knocked down

Knocked down when a standing train moved unexpectedly, Robert Raines, 117 Weber St., Venice, was taken by ambulance at 5 a.m. Saturday to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The man reported he had leg and back pains. Raines told officers he decided to take a walk after becoming involved in a family argument. Going toward train tracks near his yard, he stood near a train halted on the first set of tracks.

Without warning, the train began to move, knocking him to the ground, he related. Police said he insisted on running about while waiting for the ambulance, and fell twice.

Police filed a report with the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad.

Fired GC Journal editor receives check in breach of contract case

Associate Judge Jonathan Isbell has ruled that the Granite City Journal's firing of Editor Alice Curless-Gibson Oct. 21, 1981, may have been part of an "unlawful struggle between the public's right to know and the courageous editor and the profit motive on behalf of a publishing firm that is perhaps less concerned about the contractual rights of its employees and the public's right to know than it is about the rights of its advertisers or potential advertisers," Judge Isbell's statement was made as he awarded Mrs. Curless-Gibson $9,022.50, plus interest, from the free press.

Mrs. Curless-Gibson said she received the check for $9,439.39 from the Granite City Journal last week.

Judge Isbell also stated in his judgment that the Journal, "What we have here is a situation in my own mind reflects the product of anti-union, animus, and a desire to sweep house clean at the time that the present publisher assumed the reins more than a commitment to employer-employee relations producing the best possible work product."

He noted that Mrs. Curless-Gibson had a non-union contract with the Journal and ruled that she had lived up to the contract "in the highest sense of professional journalism, conducted herself as a loyal and selfless employee for the Granite City Journal, working well, you know, midnight and beyond at the end of the week to get her copy ready for the composing room."

Judge Isbell also acknowledged that Mrs. Curless-Gibson's difficulty in securing subsequent employment may have been related to the Journal. "I am convinced in my own mind that the lack of a recommendation from her only employer since graduating college would be a severe detriment to her ability to secure full-time employment elsewhere," he said in the judgment, but said there was inadequate evidence to award her damages at this time, so he ruled on the issue of damages.

Mrs. Curless-Gibson said that she subsequently agreed not to seek punitive damages in return for release of her check.

Judge Isbell also stated in his judgment that I would like to state that I am satisfied that the evidence has established that the defendant (Granite City Journal) has acted in reckless disregard for the contractual rights of the plaintiff in terminating the plaintiff in such manner as has and their conduct could and is classified under the law as willful and wanton."

July, Mrs. Curless-Gibson sought damages as a result of her dismissal. Her daughter, Jane Curless, and two other employees were dismissed the same week.

Two of those employees received out-of-court settlements of $3,732 and $3,015 after they filed charges with the National Labor Relations Board and the Journal was ordered to post a notice for 60 days outlining the rights of employees under the National Labor Relations Act.

November, 1981, order that the Journal must begin negotiations with the St. Louis Newspaper Guild on behalf of its employees is being appealed by the free press.

Mrs. Curless-Gibson was appointed as editor of the Journal in June, 1981, after editor George Williams was dismissed, along with the paper's sports editor and advertising manager.

ARREST ON WARRANT
Otis D. Holt, 48, of 2443 Bryan Ave. was arrested there at 4 p.m. Friday on a June 1982 warrant alleging theft. He was released on $52 bail.

Out of the gloom, a new boom

A new report by a "think tank" offers a tantalizing view of an affluent future, and it has implications for this community.

At the core of Rand Corporation's rosy outlook is a shrinking number of young adults entering the job market, perhaps leading to a labor shortage and higher real wages for increasingly available jobs.

A decline in the postwar baby boom began in the early 1960s; youngest members of that population bulge are now in their early 20s. Based on persons already born, it is being said that by 1995 there will be 40 percent fewer 20-year-olds than in 1975.

Will a draft be necessary to maintain an adequate defense force? Will immigration controls need to be eased to fill job vacancies? The smaller group of young adults could not only cause wages to surge but also reduce pressure on the housing market, contributing to lower (inflation-adjusted) prices.

All this is of interest to the individual beset by economic gloom. Yet, projections of trends have a way of not turning out as foreseen. Granite City schools once were expanding by one building and several hundred children each year, and in more recent times have been losing that many pupils annually.

Regional planners thought the baby boom here would go on indefinitely but it did not. Current elementary classes are smaller than the junior high and high school enrollments (despite the fact that some teenagers drop out). This means a mid-1980s decrease at the secondary schools.

One might conclude that the decline in young people will go on for a long time but we expect a turnaround. For one thing, births are starting to increase. Illegal immigration has grown, and the offspring from that phenomenon over the next decade can only be guessed at.

On the economic front, technology may displace more, or fewer, workers than studies have assumed; foreign competition may be more, or less, harmful than expected.

Despite the haze in everyone's crystal ball, we do not advocate ignoring demographic charts, which affect government, industry, pension systems, job training, schools and the military. It would be nice to think we are only in a transitional phase, on our way to something better, and it would be even nicer to be as ready as possible for whatever comes next.

Want to bet what's selling well?

Times may be tough all over, but you would not know it if the topic under discussion is the Illinois lottery.

The program has had its ups and downs since being started in July 1974, but in those eight years it has raised more than a half-billion dollars for the state government's general revenue fund. And the lottery is setting record after record despite the current recession.

During a low economic tide people may find "get rich quick" ideas especially appealing. Certainly, most of those who do play the Illinois lottery would like to get prompt gratification of their wishes. It is the instant games that are proving to be the broadest based, attracting all groups regardless of age, economic status or geographic location.

Illinois lottery revenue in the 1982 fiscal year climbed 55 percent above the previous high to $334,700,000, including $140,600,000 in support for state programs like education, health, human services, transportation, the environment and natural resources. Sales, prizes and profits all grew dramatically, each establishing a new peak.

The greatest percentage sales gain was in instant games, up 62 percent from $41,700,000 in 1981 to $67,500,000. Fiscal 1982 instant game sales were $7 million higher than the previous high, attained in 1977.

Michael J. Jones, superintendent, says, "Instant games always were the sleeping giant of the Illinois lottery. By adding more prizes at the $25 and $50 level, by stressing the simplicity of playing instant games, and by adding $100,000 instant prizes, we have been able to attract new players. Today, more people are playing instant games than ever before."

In fiscal 1982, the lottery will emphasize the addition of new lottery agents statewide—especially, those who sell the instant games.

All together now, help downtown

The Granite City Centre downtown development project, still alive and fighting for the area's financial future, has just embarked on one project and is getting ready for a second venture to achieve its goal, according to Alan Richardson, Tru-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce manager and executive vice president.

Shortly, the Centre board will invite retailers to join a blitz tour of renovation projects in the St. Louis area. The tour is intended to demonstrate revitalization projects that worked, along with others that did not. Richardson, one of the Centre board members, said retailer participation in the project is essential for redevelopment success.

A second on-going project just launched will need the assistance of a larger portion of the expanded downtown community, including downtown shoppers, office workers and nearby residents, who will be asked to fill out a survey form on a variety of downtown concerns. The forms will soon be available at local banks and other central locations.

Everyone's opinions will be counted when the redevelopment corporation tallies the results of the survey, which seeks input on the primary problems, attractions and possibilities of the downtown area.

According to Richardson, local citizen involvement is essential for an effective approach to the redevelopment. And the survey is one step in the right direction.

Let it all out — properly

You're steamed and you don't know what to do about it? Frequently, our advice is to write your Congressman.

It's as easy as sending a note to a friend, but quite often more productive. Congressmen and senators recognize that their re-election chances depend, more than anything else, upon their proven response to the requests of the voters.

The most successful Washington politicians are the ones who best handle their mail from the citizens "back home."

A few suggestions in writing your Congressman may be in order. Keep it brief. He is too busy to wade through 12 pages of repetition.

If the letter is about a specific piece of legislation, give the bill number and name, if possible.

Clearly state what you want him to do. Nothing is more frustrating than wading through a letter and ending up with no idea what the writer wants.

Write as an individual. Don't mention group affiliations or letter-writing campaigns, lest your letter end up in that group's file.

Don't ever think that your letter makes no difference or that you are wasting your time. A talk with any Congressman or U.S. senator will convince you how much those "letters from home" mean.

Senators Charles Percy and Alan J. Dixon may be reached individually by writing them at U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510. Congressmen (this district is represented by Congressman Melvin Price) may be reached by writing them at House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Question's Madison's investment in cable TV

To the Editor:

Note: A copy of this letter is being sent to Madison Mayor Mike Sasyk the same day it is given to the press, in the interest of fairness. If Mayor Sasyk chooses not to reply to these questions, the public can only assume why there is no specific answer.

Question one, how much money, exact dollars and cents—be federal, state or local—has been spent to date on the proposed city-owned cable television equipment, such as truck, trailer, computer, alarms, wiring, tools, meters, cable, etc.

Question two, Florida consultant fees and expenses, city officials' trips to Florida and all other cable TV and related burglar alarm expenses?

Question three, with the depreciation factor now, two to three years later, what is the equipment worth?

Question three, why didn't the city administration check the full legality of city-owned cable TV and clear the use of telephone poles at the beginning?

Question four, why has not the city administration found a professional cable TV company, like in Granite City or Venice? Is not five percent of something better than nothing and the expenditure of thousands on equipment which is now in storage and becoming obsolete with time?

Question five, does the revenue from the current alarm system justify the payment of more than $20,000 to the city alarm supervisor, who also is ambulance coordinator and fire chief?

Question six, what is the rationale, Mr. Mayor, behind not answering citizens' questions or complaints in the newspaper? Can you, Mr. Mayor, suggest how the 5,000 plus citizens of Madison can know even a small part of what is going on in Madison government if not through this great country's free press? (The city council room can hold only 15 to 20 people and we have no cable TV to broadcast city council meetings, have we?)

Specific answers to these specific questions might help the city administration regain some credibility.

LIFELONG MADISON RESIDENT

(Editor's note: Mayor Sasyk was asked if he would like to respond to these questions and said he will not answer questions posed by someone who will not reveal his name. Sasyk said that if a resident would care to identify himself and ask such questions, they will be answered.)

Feels gun control cartoon was 'tasteless'

To the Editor:

I am writing to comment on the question of gun control and the tasteless cartoon of Thursday, Sept. 2.

In case you and others are not aware, in the state of Illinois one must have a Firearm Owners Identification Card in order to purchase a weapon or ammunition. There is then a three-day waiting period for a handgun. So you don't just walk in, place your order and walk out with a "38-revolver" tucked in your belt.

As far as gun control itself, few people stop to consider that those who would burglarize, rape, murder, etc., are not going to be deterred by laws prohibiting handguns. All that gun control will accomplish is the removal of weapons from law-abiding citizens, not the criminals.

Perhaps the residents of Granite City should also be made aware that the police department is under no legal obligation to protect them or their property. Add to this the fact that, in an effort to conserve gasoline, our patrolmen have been "doubling-up" in the early morning hours, cutting the area patrolled in half.

Who is going to protect the citizens of Granite City if they don't protect themselves?

Shoppers, beware of the GC 'Time Munchers'

To the Editor:

Just when you thought it was safe to park in downtown Granite City, along come "The Time Munchers!"

Yes, these hideous creatures are lining the streets of Granite City, pretending to be parking meters. Many unsuspecting citizens are losing untold thousands in assorted change to these munching monsters. How, you ask me, do we spot one of these carnivorous beasts? First, you must synchronize your watch by calling Time and Temperature before leaving home. Secondly, choose a meter at random and approach with caution. Select one thin dime from your pocketbook, place it into the correct slot, and stand back!

If you did not hear a gurgling sound, it is now safe to turn the handle. Your meter is set for two hours. Or is it?

When you return to your vehicle 1½ hours later, after checking your watch religiously and another call to Time and Temperature, and find a calling card from the "meter maid" you'll know for sure that you've been another victim of "The Time Munchers."

What do we do? How do we rid our fair city of these unwelcome predators?

We have no easy answers. Our free parking was taken away years ago. We can only beware when "visiting" Granite City. For when you enter this seemingly placid town with its "Time and Money Munchers" you may never return. You have just entered the "Twilight Zone." MUNCHER VICTIM

Madison approves tax levy of $1.06 Tuesday

The Madison City Council has approved a $1.06 tax levy, which is the same as the 1981 levy. The levy means that owners of buildings and homes in Madison will pay slightly more than $1.06 in taxes next summer for each $100 of assessed valuation (one-third of market value) of their properties.

Alderman Thomas Gordon said that decreased sales tax revenue has created a decrease in funds and that all real estate and real property in Madison must be taxed to defray the expenses.

Approval also was given to opening bids for sale of a piece of land owned by the Diamond Plating Company in the Stephen Maeras Industrial Park. The company has returned the property to the city.

The March of Dimes was granted permission to conduct a roadblock in Madison tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the purpose of collecting contributions.

May revise bilingual mandate

The State Board of Education's Planning and Policy Committee will conduct public hearings Sept. 8 in Chicago and Oct. 7 in Springfield on preliminary recommendations for revising the state's bilingual education mandate.

The hearing in Chicago will be held from 3 to 7 p.m. in the Florentine Room of the Americana-Congress Hotel, 320 S. Michigan Ave. In Springfield, the hearing will last from 1 to 4:30 p.m. in the board's office at 100 N. 1st St.

Persons will be given five minutes for oral presentations on the mandate. The committee will accept written testimony of any length.

The preliminary report was prepared by an internal task force and is part of the board's effort to review all mandates placed on elementary and secondary education.

It recommends revising the mandate to allow school districts to choose the methodology of instruction for students in bilingual education programs.

Under the present bilingual education mandate, school districts are only reimbursed for transitional bilingual programs. The transitional approach provides for instruction of courses in the native language of a student until the student acquires sufficient knowledge of the English language.

The report states there is no conclusive evidence that one approach is more effective than another.

Local school officials should select the instructional approach that will enable students to become proficient in the English language and achieve "early and effective transition to the regular school curriculum," the report relates.

Also, it recommends revising the mandate to require all public schools that have students with limited English-speaking abilities to provide bilingual programs. At present, schools that have 20 or more students of the same language group with limited English-speaking abilities are required to provide a bilingual education program.

An estimated 40,000 students participate in transitional programs in Illinois last school year.

The preliminary report also recommends revising the bilingual education mandate to:

—Eliminate the requirement that history and culture be taught, but include the desirability of such content in a language transition program.

—Provide for local flexibility in assuring participation of parents and community organizations.

The committee will review the report and all comments on the bilingual education mandate before State Sup. of Education Donald Gill presents his recommendations to the committee on a policy position for the board.

County delays investing funds

A Price Waterhouse audit of Madison County governmental accounts spotlights a delay of two to four days in transferring idle cash to interest-bearing investments.

The report says this adds up to significant lost potential earnings, especially considering the large amounts received daily on or near tax deadlines.

The accountants said it should be possible for the county treasurer to obtain collected cash balances more frequently than once a week, so as to achieve maximum interest earnings on available revenue.

Price Waterhouse favors tighter control over paycheck authorizations. For departments with only one or two workers, it recommends that a supervisor independent of the department approve wage documents.

It adds that, since other county departments use a parcel identification numbering system, the system ought to also be used by the recorder of deeds, resulting in a substantial saving of time for taxpayers.

In circuit court clerical offices, the accountants urge placing all funds under general ledger control, rather than having staff members account for their own cash receipts and disbursements. They estimate the annual court revenue at $3 million to $4 million.

Bailey reacts to jail lawsuit

Commenting on the lawsuit filed against Madison County officials to end double occupancy of county jail cells, Hancel Bailey, Republican sheriff nominee, said he opposes the state's action against the county.

"One of the problems in Illinois is that criminals have it too comfortable in our 'country club' jails, which add extremely to the expenses borne by taxpayers."

"The costly kind of jail facility we have is one of the reasons why we have such a large number of repeat offenders," Bailey asserted.

"There is too much 'red carpet treatment' of those in the jails and penal institutions of this state," he said in opposing the state government's attempt to force Madison County to expand its 110-capacity jail.

Edwardsville falls suspect to Warrior kickers 3-0

By ROGER KRAMER

EDWARDSVILLE — Bruno Gwardys, Edwardsville High School soccer coach, has brought that school's program a long way during his tenure, but he'll be the first to admit the Tigers are not on the same level as Granite City South.

South defeated Edwardsville 3-0 Friday at Cougar Field on the basis of the Warriors' defense. The Warriors didn't allow Edwardsville to take a shot on goal during the entire game.

"You're going to expect that against Granite City South," Gwardys said. "They're a fine team, and they're supposed to have a lot of finesse on both offense and defense. We just don't have the talent to keep up with them yet."

Although the Warriors dominated both the offensive and defensive aspects of the game, Gwardys thought the Tigers held up well.

"Most of the time, we played a pretty good game. Our defense was holding them pretty well, but we couldn't get going offensively," Gwardys said.

South's defense was the big difference in the game. The Tigers had problems getting the ball past the midfield line, and when they did, a Warrior would be there to front the Tigers. The Warrior defense made life easy for goalie Jeb Blasingame, who didn't have a save in the game.

"We played a good game defensively," South coach Gene Baker said. "I really thought Tim Gibson played an outstanding game on defense. He made several excellent defensive moves."

However, Baker still isn't sure how good South's defense is. He will find out this week. Tonight (Tuesday), South plays Granite City North at 4 p.m. at

Granite South Warriors

North's field, and on Thursday, the Warriors start play in the Glenbrook North Round Robin Tournament.

"I really don't know how good our defense is. I know we need to do a lot of hard work. We're going to have to be ready for this week's games," Baker said.

Part of the reason the Warriors will have to work hard in practice was their inability to score early in the game. South had plenty of chances to score but failed to do so in the first quarter.

"At times, we looked pretty good, but we have to play better," Baker said. "We probably should have scored more early in the game. I like to credit their defense for keeping us from scoring."

Indeed, Edwardsville's defense tightened around the goal early. The Warriors dominated play near the midfield line and was able to set up attacks, but Edwardsville stopped everything early.

Despite South's offensive dominance early, the Warriors only had three shots on goal in the first quarter.

The Warriors waited until 16:20 of the second quarter to pick up their first goal. Edwardsville stopped South's advances prior to the goal, but Bill Hency picked off of Edwardsville's passes and made a good pass to Barry Grote who chipped in the goal from the left side.

"Barry broke the game open there," Baker said.

South couldn't score again until the fourth quarter. Nathan scored on the left side on a pass from Phil Harizal with 9:49 left in the game.

With 5:24 left in the game, Bill Hency scored the final goal with John Menendez earning the assist.

"Three goals were enough to take this game, and I'll take them. We weren't really that happy with the game though. We're still missing several players who we counted on, and we weren't passing as well as we could," Baker said.

In the junior varsity game, South defeated Edwardsville 5-0.

But Kehoe disappointed

Steelers defeat GE conference rival Althoff 5-2

By ROGER KRAMER

GRANITE CITY — Even though Granite City North defeated Belleville Althoff 5-2 Saturday in a Gateway East Conference soccer game, Bob Kehoe, North's coach, was not a happy man.

"We like to win, but we'd like to win the right way," Kehoe said. "The Steelers did win, but Kehoe let the players know he wasn't pleased with the way they went about winning. His biggest concern was that the Steelers were still making mistakes they did in the first three games."

"We didn't even come close to playing to our potential. We've got a lot of individual effort, but soccer is a team game, and we have to play as a team. They've got the potential to be a good team, and it could take them one day to put things together. But a lot of what I've been saying is going in one ear and out the other. We keep making the same mistakes over and over again," Kehoe said.

One flaw the Steelers had Saturday—and all season—was going up the middle for a shot rather than working around the outside for an open shot.

"I'll go and explain to them 8,000 times that if you try to go up the middle for a shot, the center backs are going to be there to stop it. If they work around to the corners, you only have the corner back on you, and the center backs will have to come out and get him opening up the good shot," Kehoe said.

"We try to teach them the importance of going outside by asking them how their mothers open a can. Do they open it down the middle? No, she opens it around the outside. Why does she do it that way? Because it's easier. It's the same way in soccer," Kehoe said with a tone of frustration in his voice.

Another flaw the Steelers had was arguing with the referees. "One of our players goes out and pushes one of their players. He tells them he didn't like the call, and the referee pulls out a yellow card and tell him what he thinks of his comments.

Bob Kehoe
Steeler soccer coach

"We don't like to see players try to both play and referee the game because when they do, they look bad doing both," Kehoe said.

The third major flaw was missing assignments on defense. That mistake gave Althoff the lead only 1:48 into the game. Rich Reiniger had three defenders near him, but none of them were close enough to stop his shot, a 25 yard blast.

"Rich Branding did a good job of directing the defense, but a lot of times they didn't listen to him like they don't listen to me. The defense has to know how to play the angles," Kehoe said.

Fortunately for North, the Steelers came back with two goals later in the first quarter. Brian Levin headed a shot off David Shiekh's corner kick with 8:20 left in the quarter to tie the game.

At 5:43, Levin made an alert pass back to Benny Nolan, who came in from the left to score North's second goal.

Shiekh scored for North with 11:33 left in the second quarter on Nolan's pass.

Reiniger scored Althoff's other goal with 10:53 left in the third quarter.

North came back with two goals in the fourth quarter. Nolan took a pass from Shiekh with 13:07 left, and Nolan passed to Levin with 5:03 left to close the scoring.

Even though the Steelers scored five goals, the scoring didn't mean much to Kehoe. He was displeased with the manner they scored the goals.

At least two, and maybe three, of the goals were well earned. They were something we got by creating and working out the plan. Nolan's goal off Levin was a good individual effort on his part, but at least that was part of a plan," Kehoe said.

Although the score was lopsided, Althoff controlled the ball for close to half of the game.

"I thought we controlled the ball for about half the game," Althoff coach Larry Mank said. "North just took advantage of their opportunities to score and we didn't."

"When I look at the two teams, I knew our team is by far better because I've seen them everyday in practice and know how and what they can do. All it would take is one day to get start listening and doing what we can do," Kehoe said.

North has to get things together quickly. The Steelers host South today at 4 p.m.

In junior varsity action, North and Althoff played to a 1-1 tie. Althoff broke on top with approximately seven minutes remaining in the first quarter. Eric Goff put the Steelers on the scoreboard with the 12:33 mark of the third quarter to tie the game.

After the game, jayvee coach Dave Ames, said he was "pleased" with his team's play. "Our defense is beginning to move the ball a little better, and that's encouraging," Ames said.

Warrior golfers down Oilers, Shells

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City High School South golf team dropped a dual match to Mascoutah last Wednesday at Arlington Golf Course, but came back to defeat both Wood River and Roxana at rain-soaked Arlington Thursday.

In Wednesday's match against Mascoutah, the Warriors finished eleven strokes behind the Indians posting a 168 total to Mascoutah's 187.

Warrior coach Dwayne "Boone" Chaney's team goal of scoring each golfer at or below 40 strokes was nearly attained Wednesday as three of the "starting four" finished at or below 40 strokes at the "front nine holes" at Arlington.

Thursday, however, on the rain soaked Arlington course, the Warrior golfers didn't do as well, but their efforts were still good enough to win the triangular event over both Wood River and Roxana. South won posting a 174, followed by four strokes was Wood River with a 176 and Roxana 10 strokes back at 184.

This afternoon, the Warriors travel to Belleville to take on conference rivals Belleville Althoff. Tee off time is 4 p.m.

Steeler, Warrior soccer match up this afternoon

By ALAN L. GERSTENECKER
Sports Editor
of the Press-Record

This afternoon's soccer contest between five-time state soccer champs Granite City South and perennial soccer power Granite City High School North will be the prep soccer enthusiasts' game to see. The varsity-only contest begins at 4 p.m. at Granite City North varsity soccer field.

In that corner, is Gene Baker's Warriors — a dynamic team. A team, Baker admits, is probably his strongest ever. A team that is top heavy with upper classmen. This afternoon's game is South's third contest of the young season. The Warriors are undefeated. So far, the Warriors (against Edwardsville and Alton) have outscored their opponents 5-0. The Warrior defense has yet to yield a goal to an opposing offense.

Granite South Warriors

In the other corner are the Steelers — an explosive team. Steeler coach Bob Kehoe has described this year's edition of the Steeler soccer team as "a team with a lot of potential." Kehoe admits, though, that his team has yet to reach that potential. This afternoon's game will be the Steelers' fifth of the season. They're 3-1 on the season. After a disappointing season opening loss to Quincy Aug. 28, the Steelers have rallied to three victories against conference rivals Edwardsville, Cahokia and Belleville Althoff. Since Quincy, the Steelers have outscored their opponents 9-2.

This afternoon's contest will be the first meeting of the two teams this season. They will both meet again, Sept. 30, at South.

If there is a single common denominator between both teams it is Edwardsville. So far each has played Edwardsville and each has emerged shut out victors.

North's second game was against the Tigers Tuesday, Aug. 31. The Steelers won 2-0. The Warriors defeated Edwardsville 3-0 last Friday, Sept. 3.

The Steeler-Warrior match up should be the classic prep game. South will have to contend with Steeler goalie Rich Branding. All-State defender Steve Trittschuh. Branding figures to be one of the premiere net-minders this year, while Trittschuh, who will play in his first game since he sprained his ankle against Quincy two weeks ago, will strengthen an already tough Steeler defense. Monday afternoon, Trittschuh said he was "ready to play."

Across the field from Branding this afternoon will be South's best — Jeb Blasingame. Blasingame is probably the best reason the Warriors have yet to yield a goal.

Trittschuh's return, however, does not mean the Steeler defense cannot or will not be penetrated — especially against South's quick, control oriented offense. Likewise, Blasingame's perfect record will be tested.

For the Warriors, the four to watch will be strikers Barry Grote and Phil Popmarkoff as well as links Nathan Crane and Bill Henry. All four are explosive scorers.

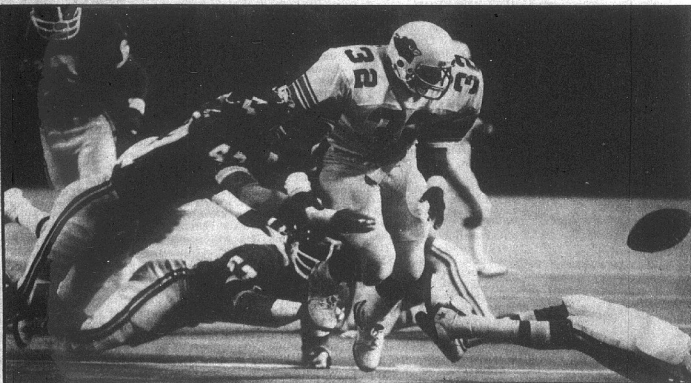

North's offensive will be mounted from four individuals: Brian Levin, Benny Nolan, Jim Dean and Dave Sheik, all of whom are quick upfield.

Whatever the outcome, it's a sure bet that those attending Tuesday's game will be treated to prep soccer at its finest.

Warrior kickers down Redbirds

By NANCY WEIL
of the Press-Record

It is not always easy to have a reputation of strength. Everyone expects so much.

But the Granite City High School South soccer team gave their fans what was anticipated with a 2-0 win over Alton in the home opener Thursday night.

There were a lot of psyched up people at South's field Thursday, 11 of whom were on the field and several others who watched from the sidelines near the Warrior bench.

"They're always sky high," said Alton coach Larry Montgomery about the Warriors.

South opened the game at a feverish clip and kept the pace up throughout all four quarters, except for a brief period in the second quarter.

Gene Baker, South coach, appreciates games played at a good pace and, therefore, was "very pleased" after the game.

A fast soccer game, he said, is a sure sign of firm conditioning and both teams displayed the ability to keep up with the play. The only problem occurred "when you lose control," but that was not the overall case Thursday night.

Montgomery said he felt Alton "gave it their best shot." From Baker's standpoint, Alton has shown improvement over last year. "They're physical and they have some speed. I think they'll bother some teams."

Aggressive play is a natural part of a fast-paced, well-played game and both teams did a good job of keeping the play clean with some exceptional tackles on South's part.

The Warriors, who dominated on Alton's half of the field from the onset, scored first at 8:37 when Phil Popmarkoff scored from the left after John Menendez assisted by putting the ball in the middle of the goal area.

Popmarkoff, who played well, settled the ball and took just enough time to ensure the goal.

Alton goalkeeper, Matt Marmino

"They're (Alton) physical and they have some good speed. I think they'll bother some teams."

Gene Baker
Warrior soccer coach
appraising Alton

played a good game against South's strong offense, but could not get a hand on the ball as it cruised over his head.

South had an excellent scoring opportunity late in the first quarter when Marmino opened up the goal enough for a clear shot to slide in, but offside was called before such a shot could be made.

"Matt looked good in goal," Montgomery said. Indeed, on various scoring opportunities for South, Marmino kept his wits and anticipated shots well.

Offensively, however, Alton had problems. South's good offensive play kept the ball on Alton's half of the field most of the game. During the instances Alton could possibly have scored, they either lost control or Jeb Blasingame, South goalkeeper took over.

"I don't think Alton had a bona fide opportunity (to score)," Baker said.

His was not the only opinion on Alton's scoring potential. Montgomery said he thought Alton had chances to score, "but we didn't do some things that we needed to do." He added that he believed his team could have better executed plays that had been practiced.

With a 1-0 score, it was possible for Alton to tie the score until the third quarter when South's offense exploded.

At 33:02 Nathan Crane scored on an assist from Phil Harizal. Right before the goal, Marmino hit the ball out with his hands, but South persisted and stayed in the area. Crane shot over Marmino's head into the left of the net. Thirty-nine seconds later, Crane scored on an assist by Bill Henry.

With the offensive push came a more aggressive game. Montgomery, obviously upset because he felt the referees were not calling enough fouls, was given a yellow card for his persistence in voicing his opinion.

In the fourth quarter, South's Jim Crews also was given a yellow card. The pace, however, was not hampered.

With a little over two minutes remaining, Alton was awarded an indirect kick on an obstruction call, but South's defense got the ball back down the field.

During the course of the game, there were some exceptional plays and after the final buzzer sounded, Baker mentioned one in particular. "Fritz (Brewer) with that diving head ball was kind of dynamic." Diving head balls are not often seen, particularly in high school games.

"Popmarkoff played very well at striker," Baker added and also said he felt Blasingame did a good job in goal.

"He won the opportunity to play and I'll go with him until he proves otherwise," Baker said of Blasingame.

South's junior varsity team, coached by Mel Bunting, varsity assistant, started the evening off with a 6-0 win against Alton's JV team.

Scott AFB edges powerlifting team

The powerlifting team from Granite City failed to win the regional championship at the recent meet hosted by the United States Air Force Scott at Air Force Base.

Because of being one member short on its squad, the best team won the meet. Pacing the Spartan team was the veteran Rick Wickham, 28, Granite City, who captured the open division 220-pound weight class crown. In the process, he was given the best lifter of the meet award. He now is qualified to enter both the 1983 junior and senior national championship tournaments.

Wickham posted 714 pounds in the squat, 490 in the press and 700 pounds in the deadlift for a meet high of 1904 pounds.

Shelly Fink, a resident of Cahokia but a member of the Spartan team, was first in the Scott Air Force Base meet's women's division 198-pound class and qualified for the 1983 women's national championship tournament; she posted a 380 pounds in the squat; 143 pounds in the bench press and 419 deadlift for meet high of 942.

Other Spartan team members and their results were: Bill Summers of Edwardsville, taking part in his second meet, was fourth in the novice division with a total of 1073 pounds. Leroy Marsh, possibly the oldest lifter (age 45) in the meet and a native of Wood River, had an aggregate 1291 pounds to finish third in the novice group.

Granite Cityan Mark Eichenseer, 25, came in third in the meet's open division in the 198-pound weight class with a total of 1530 pounds. It was just his second meet.

Another Granite City lifter, Sam Greco, came in third in the open division 181-pound weight class with a 1190 pound total.

Two other Spartan team members, both from Granite City, claimed second-place honors: Randy Presswood, in the open division 165-pound weight class and John Bruch, a second in the 275-pound weight class in the open division.

Champ Summers gets game winning hit

Champ Summers was a Cardinal fan when he was growing up in Granite City. But Sunday, Summers had little regard for his former favorite team as he came up to bat for the San Francisco Giants in the eighth inning and got the game-winning hit of the 5-1 victory.

Cardinal hurler John Stuper appeared to be in little danger in that inning until the Giants hit a four-run hot streak at Candlestick Park.

With two outs, Derrell Evans doubled off the right field fence and Milt May was poked. Summers came in to pinch hit for Joe Pettini and

Chamber manager's first year set the base for a brighter future

By GEORGEANN MCGEE
of the Press-Record

The Tri-Cities Economic Development Committee is laying the groundwork for a major leadership and affiliation shift towards government supervision and away from the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce in an attempt to gain fuller union participation.

Alan Richardson, manager and vice president of the Chamber, outlined his plans for the reorganization and independent incorporation of the Chamber's economic committee as he updated its progress in a Press-Record interview, marking both the anniversary of his Chamber appointment and start of the area's economic drive.

The shift would be "in who and not what's being done," said Richardson, who will remain very much a part of the program. He had set such close government involvement as a goal of his from the start.

ALAN G. RICHARDSON

He believes the government connection will cut the red tape tied to tax abatements, low-interest financing and other forms of government aid.

Richardson celebrated his first anniversary last week and spent a part of it on the phone — sharing in private rejoicings with other local economic developers after receiving good news about the Granite City Centre downtown revitalization movement.

An announcement will be made within the next few weeks, if all goes according to plan. Typically, Richardson has been able to make regular progress reports since taking his new position Aug. 17, 1981, and soon after spearheading the special economic development task force here. Charged with lifting up an area sagging beneath the weight of escalating unemployment and local business closures, Richardson and the Chamber's Economic Development Committee also are fighting the area's poor public image.

He has voiced relief that a St. Louis newspaper recently overlooked the area in an article on high unemployment. At 20.8 percent, preliminary July unemployment figures for Granite City are close to the highest in the state.

Last week he gave a lengthy interview to a New York Times reporter researching an article on the St. Louis region's economic survival. Richardson said he is anxious to see what sort of national publicity the city has generated this time.

He said the reporter seemed interested in the fledgling but intensive economic development drive here, the new type of image the Chamber director is trying to project. He is hoping the area will be used to demonstrate, for once, some positive action.

Richardson still is agitated about an article in another nation publication, Barrens, that described the stomping grounds of Thomas Brimberry, of St. Louis and Co. investment funds fame, as an unattractive area of ramshackled homes. That article spurred the "Quality of Life" booklet Richardson is completing. Copies should be available in January.

The booklet aims to dispel the "limited resource" and "perpetual black cloud" image that continues to plague the area. Richardson instead praises the area's assets — the local school system, which sends more than 50 percent of its students to college; the park district, which boasts its own ice rink, among more traditional offerings; and the Granite City Steel Division of National Steel, which has made tremendous strides in air pollution control, although the area has continued to lead the state in certain types of air pollution.

Last month, the Chamber Board of Directors sent a letter to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency backing Granite City Steel's request for a controversial "bubble concept" permit. The plan would substitute stricter parking lot dust control for a release from certain Clean Air Act requirements.

Besides the cardboard layout for the "Quality of Life" booklet, bits and pieces of data in various forms of preparedness are piled on Richardson's desk and credenza, indicating the vast amount of data collecting that has been continuing through the Chamber for the past several months.

Stacks of papers wait to be compacted into a "Fact Book on the Tri-Cities," due in January. Within reaching distance are copies of a recently completed map of Illinois Power's industrial park. The original map was drawn with the assistance of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Nearly sets a labor-management brochure intended to break down existing barriers between the two groups is slated for a Nov. 1 distribution. In addition, a Chamber "Members-Buyers Guide," aimed at identifying and patronizing local business retailers, is due for release next month.

Both the university and Dr.

Robert Koepke, coordinator of Area Development for SIUE and member of the local development committee, have been instrumental in the printed materials phase of the Chamber's economic development campaign.

SIUE has supplied its assistance without charge as a public service from a state-supported institution, according to Richardson.

Besides the publication campaign, others in progress or soon to be started include: mailing area information to selected markets; initiating personal visits to carefully targeted St. Louis companies; advertising the Tri-Cities in business publications; and presenting seminars to familiarize selected groups with the port region and the local foreign trade zone.

As an example, Richardson pointed out a recent ad in St. Louis Commerce "phenomenon" the Tri-City Regional Port District.

The Chamber also is working with the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association (RCGA) in identifying the proper groups to approach concerning the empty A. O. Smith plant. The plant now is featured in a color three-page advertising brochure printed by the Turley Martin Co., industrial realtors.

RCGA also is searching for defense-related industries which may be interested in the plant. Richardson said that defense industries are now among the few industries involved in a "fair amount of action" in the area.

The Economic Development Committee and Illinois Power Co. (IP) will soon begin looking for transportation companies which might be persuaded to locate in the northern section of IP's Northgate Industrial Park on the northwest edge of Granite City.

"IP and I will be making some calling trips on firms to get their reaction," Richardson said. The new map of the area should be an important element in promoting the area, he explained.

Earlier this year, IP sponsored a four-part economic development seminar for area government, business and union leaders. Richardson was encouraged by the increasing attendance at each succeeding session.

A dissatisfaction with the lack of government and union involvement, however, was expressed at a fifth meeting, when participants were asked for their input. From that discussion, and from a subsequent meeting of union leaders (who seemed hesitant to become involved with the Chamber), the present economic development committee decided to seek an expanded role for government in the current development structure.

Richardson has discussed the plan with Mayor Paul Schuler and is waiting for a future meeting to continue with the new emphasis. The new corporation might be represented by six members each from government, labor and the business community.

The Chamber manager also pointed out the importance of the independent Granite City Centre in bringing in government involvement, since "the downtown area involves a lot of overlapping between communities, the downtown area has historically played a key role in the history of Granite City, Madison and Venice."

The Granite City Centre has just mailed out a comprehensive survey form intended to find out what downtown business, shoppers and workers want from the area.

Other economic development accomplishments Richardson cited as concrete progress for the business community in the last year include the canvassing of 400 small businesses, which aided in the passage of a state law lessening business paperwork, and the gathering of facts for a forthcoming regional study in retaining present industries.

Both studies should produce reports the Chamber expects to use as part of its own program.

Richardson was recently appointed to the new 16-member Southwestern Illinois Business Development Corporation.

The organization is intended to assist small businesses obtain financing for starting up or expanding operations.

Fellowship -- goal for a million

By BILL WINTER
of the Press-Record

Fellowship through Rotary International can foster worldwide understanding and peace, Granite City and Madison-Venice Rotarians were told last week by Parker L. Steis, Monmouth, a third-generation Rotary district governor in Illinois.

Examples mentioned from his contacts with other Rotary governors were links of friendship between Argentina and Great Britain, England and Ireland, and Israel and Arab lands.

Steis called for membership expansion, especially among younger businessmen, and noted that total RI membership is likely to pass the one million mark in early January 1983. Rotary is active in 167 countries.

Average ages in the two local clubs are 51 for Granite City and 49 for Madison-Venice.

The governor praised accomplishments of Donald Shaffner, cooperative education coordinator in the Granite City school system and governor-elect of District 466.

Shaffner was cited for fostering the growth of group study exchanges and student exchanges. Teenagers and business spend time in foreign lands under the two programs.

Steis noted that the present international president, a Japanese psychiatrist, has established as his theme: "Mankind is one-building bridges of friendship throughout the world."

Steis urged attendance at district events, including the annual conference April 16, 1983, in Galesburg and encouraged contacts with English-speaking Rotary clubs in Tanzania.

The governor briefly reviewed work of the Rotary Foundation in the fields of health, hunger and humane and heard reports of club committee activities and goals.

It was noted that a past district governor, George T. Wilkins Sr. of Granite City, is hospitalized.

WARRANT ARREST

Clyde R. Sanders, 46, of 719 Brown St., Venice, was brought to Granite City police headquarters by a Madison County sheriff's deputy last week on a warrant alleging failure to appear in court on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Bond was set at $1,500, last week.

GC officer explains stress evaluation test

Detective Tony Eck of the Granite City Police Department presented a demonstration and explanation of how the Psychological Stress Evaluation (PSE) testing program could be used in commercial institutions for members of the Metro-East Restaurant Association last week.

The law enforcement officer addressed members at their monthly meeting at Ravanelli's Restaurant. He was introduced by Tom Hartman, owner of Pantera's in Granite City, who arranged the program.

Eck explained the equipment used in the testing series and how the resulting evaluation is determined.

Association members also heard a review of the Cooperative Education program of the Granite City School District. The program employs high school students on a part-time basis in cooperation with the public schools.

Among those attending the meeting were Frank Ravanelli, Ken Lowman, Bill Burns, Cecil Minor, John Svezia, Bert Litzelman, Rich Frazer, Tony Broyles, Curt Brown, Terry Ravanelli, Janet Davinroy and Don Shaffner.

The newly organized Metro-East Restaurant Association set its next meeting for Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Ravanelli's. Kraft Foods of St. Louis will present the program, it was announced.

Oncology Unit in full operation

By MARIE MCKINSEY
St. Elizabeth Medical Center

A ribbon-cutting ceremony marked the official opening of St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Oncology Unit.

The unit, a 22-bed cancer treatment facility, was made possible by a $150,000 donation from the St. Elizabeth Medical Center Auxiliary. This donation is one of those made this year by the Auxiliary to purchase new equipment, furnish scholarships and support the Meals on Wheels program.

The Auxiliary's efforts on behalf of SEMC were praised by Ted Ellerman, SEMC medical vice president, in opening remarks at the ribbon-cutting ceremony. "The Auxiliary is always willing to put in the effort where the need is," he said. "And there is certainly a need for a unit of this kind in this area." He noted that this area has a cancer rate 11 times that of the rest of the state and eight times that of the national average.

Patients admitted to the new Oncology Unit will have the advantage of individualized care delivered by a team of specialists. Treatment will be provided more efficiently because patients will be in one area, instead of being scattered throughout the medical center.

The families of cancer patients also have been considered in the design of the unit. The atmosphere of the unit is more like that of a home than a hospital. The hallways and lounges are carpeted and attractive photo displays add to the decor. These surroundings provide more comfort for family members who will spend a lot of time in the unit during a cancer patient's hospitalization.

Because cancer patients often have poor appetites and often prefer "home-cooking," complete kitchen facilities are available for family members to use to prepare food.

The new Oncology Unit began accepting patients on August 23.

you can BANK on it!

DREW KARANDJEFF
President

O. I am considering opening an individual retirement account at a bank. In reading material about IRA's, I've run across something for which I can't find the answer. Is the bank's custodial fee something deductible on my federal income taxes as an investment expense? A. This will depend on how the bank collects the fee when you open your Individual Retirement Account. If the bank takes a percentage of the IRA contribution, you cannot write the fee off because the fee comes from money which is already deductible. However, most tax experts are now in agreement that you may deduct the bank's fee if that fee is in addition to your IRA contribution. When you decide to open your IRA, it might be a good idea to talk to the officer who is assisting you in opening the account and get the officer's advice on the matter. This, of course, is not an area on which the Internal Revenue Service has made a definite ruling so it, like all such questions, is open to interpretation.

BAC Foundation campaign

The Belleville Area College Foundation is launching a campaign to expand its charitable and educational projects during the coming school year.

In the first step toward that goal, the foundation's board has been reorganized to fill vacancies and spur added direction from the community college's board of trustees.

BAC Board member Curt Eckert of Belleville has been named chairman of the foundation board. BAC Trustees Robert Dintelman, will serve as vice chairman for the foundation; BAC Vice-President for Administrative Services and BAC Board Treasurer James J. Hines, will be foundation treasurer; and BAC secretary Carol Hudack, will be foundation secretary. All are from Belleville.

BAC President Dr. Bruce R. Wissore, who has been named to the foundation's board, explained its function.

"The college foundation is the official outlet to encourage and direct philanthropy. Its purpose is to improve BAC in places where normal sources of funds are not sufficient."

"The foundation will conduct annual fund drives which may include such events as golf tournaments and dances and also projects such as capital fund drives. Such drives will be for the arts, athletics or other areas of the college."

"The foundation is the agency which will receive and disperse grants for scholarships," Wissore added.

Other new members of the foundation board include all of the members of the college's board of trustees.

They were added after former members requested additional input from them.

"Foundation members (who were residents of the college district) felt they needed direction and commitment from the college," Wissore said. The reorganization will give that direction, then the foundation board will be turned back over to district citizens, he added.

"The foundation will become dependent on the board of trustees and then begin fund-raising activities," Wissore said.

The meeting of the foundation board, the first since its reorganization, will be this month.

Trustees serving on the foundation board include BAC Board Chairman Patricia Bartokas of New Athens and Trustees Kenneth Fish and Elizabeth Jenner of Mascoutah, Wayne Reynolds of Belleville and Avery Schermer of Granite City, and student Trustee Sharon Owens.

Foundation board charter member Joseph Keck, resident of Belleville, will continue to serve, as will former BAC Attorney Norman Naid.

Other members of the reorganized board include BAC Vice-President for Instruction Dr. R. Wayne Clark, Belleville; Dean of General Studies and Community Services Division Larry Schmalenberger, Mascoutah; and Faculty Senate representative Wayne Lanier, Lebanon.

The foundation also was organized in 1978 under the leadership of former Belleville resident Ron Swift, who has since been removed from the area. During his tenure on the board, several scholarship funds were established and projects completed including purchase of the sign along Highway 161.

The reorganized board will begin its work by studying the college's board of trustees. Foundations at community colleges throughout Illinois. Bylaws will be reviewed and adopted as necessary, according to the announcement.

OK personnel changes for Madison schools

By EAT HAY-LUTZ

of the Press-Record

In several personnel decisions on Thursday, the Madison County School Board hired four persons into the district. Wilbur Owens was hired to serve as the part-time security guard for Madison High School, while Georgia Slawar was returned as the half-time kindergarten teacher. Both Owens and Mrs. Slawar were previously employed by the Madison County District, but had been honorably terminated.

Board members decided to maintain a paid social worker internship for District 12. Judy Penick, a second-year student at Washington University, was approved for the position, which will run from September, 1982, through June, 1983. Juvenia Bradley was approved for a new position as aide to the coaches and administrators at the high school.

In other actions, the board approved a request from Ida Stacy, the high school EMH teacher, to participate in the Very Special Arts Festival on October 28, 1982 at SIU-Edwardsville. Her Career Skills class will operate a booth in the Activities section, making "Magic Windows" from ziploc bags and the primary colors of fingerprints. According to Diane Sacova, coordinator of the Festival, the Madison County group will be offering a unique addition to the Festival. "They will not just be attending. They will be involved in organizing and providing a service for others," Mrs. Sacova said. "This is an entirely new concept and we are very excited about their participation."

The industrial arts students may be constructing the new sign for Madison High School. Board members voted to table a bid of approximately $1,498 for a non-lighted sign from a professional signmaker in order to offer the shop students a chance to gain some tangible skills while working on the project. According to Board Member Edward Newsome, the project "would help to develop some pride in the students, as well as save the district some money."

It was reminded that the date of the next regular meeting was changed from Sept. 16 to Sept. 23.

PETTY THEFT CHARGE

Mary S. Melender, 28, of 4060 Kathy Drive, arrested on an August petty theft warrant at 2:45 p.m. Friday, was released on a notice to appear for a hearing.

Home Health Care saves many from hospital expenses

By MARIE MCKINSEY

St. Elizabeth

Medical Center's Home Health Department is bringing skilled medical services into people's homes and helping them bring health care costs down.

"Last year, we visited 200 patients," says Mary Hellege, RN, director of the Home Health Department. "Without home care services, these patients would have been institutionalized, resulting in much greater expense for them."

Home care patients are referred to the program by their doctors. Following the doctor's orders, one or more members of the Home Health team visit the patient regularly. The team consists of registered nurses, a home health aide, a social worker, a speech therapist and a physical therapist. Team members provide the needed medical services and keep physicians informed of their patients' progress.

Patients aren't the only ones who benefit from Home Health services, however. Home Health personnel teach family members how to care for the patients, giving them a greater sense of confidence and usefulness. "Many of these family members are really grateful. They're amazed that they are able to learn techniques that help even some of the most difficult patients," Mrs. Hellege says.

There is a growing trend toward home care services, Mrs. Hellege says. "Home care is seen as a feasible way to manage health care services economically, especially with our older population steadily increasing."

In observance of the valuable services provided by home health departments, such as the one at St.

Elizabeth Medical Center, the week of Sept. 12 to 18 has been designated as Illinois Home Health Week. To celebrate, a SEMC's Home Health Department fund-raising event will hold a bake sale on Sept. 14. Mrs. Hellege says that the proceeds from these activities will be donated in part to SEMC's Mobile Meals Program.

The rest of the money will go into an emergency fund for patients. "Some of our patients can't afford to buy their medicine when they need it because they have to wait for a check at the end of the month. So we need to have money on hand so that they don't have to do without," Mrs. Hellege says. Also, when the holidays come, we'd like to be able to do something special for some of these people. We see some sad situations."

Man flees as rifle discharges

Eric L. Caldwell, 28, of 1107 Calhoun St., Venice, arrested Friday afternoon for alleged armed violence, unlawful weapon use and failure to obtain a firearm owner identification card.

He was held at the Venice police station during the weekend. Officers said one shot was fired from a rifle toward Johnny "Darnell" Robinson, 34 Lee Wright Home, as he ran away from Caldwell in the vicinity of the Lee Wright housing project at noon Friday. No one was injured.

Police questioned them and two other Venice men, one having been Caldwell's companion and the other having stood near Robinson. Caldwell said he fired the rifle but not at anyone. He said he had been threatened.

Illinois Power announces teletypewriter service

DECATUR, ILL. — A program to better communicate with customers who have a speech or hearing impairment has been implemented by Illinois Power Company.

"In our continuing effort to better serve our customers, we have recently installed a teletypewriter at the company's headquarters in Decatur," said Gary L. Secor, director of customer relations for Illinois Power Company. "It is our hope that persons will make use of this service and contact us if they have any questions regarding their bill or service."

A teletypewriter (called a Telecommunications device for the deaf, or TDD) allows a person to type a message on a keyboard similar to a typewriter and the message is transmitted via the telephone to a similar device at the receiving end.

Illinois Power Co. mailed letters to customers identified as having a TDD to advise them of the new service. Illinois Power also asked various agencies to help inform persons about the company's new TDD service.

Customers with a TDD may call the Decatur office collect Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at (317) 424-6500. A call coming in on this telephone line will be connected to the TDD immediately upon Illinois Power Company personnel recognizing the identifying tones, Secor said.

Customers with a TDD can call Illinois Power collect using the "Communication Assistance" operators of Illinois Bell telephone at (800) 855-1155 or General Telephone at (800) 329-7586.

"Illinois Power will offer to see how frequently the service is used and how well it works," Secor said. "The program could be expanded to some of the local service areas if we see heavy usage in those particular locations," he added.

Burglary charge filed by Venice

Terry Sherrod, 19, of 71 Venice Homes, Venice, was charged with burglary in an informational document issued last week by the Madison County state's attorney's office. He was transferred Tuesday from the Venice City Jail to Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

The charge stemmed from a weekend burglary at the home of Edna Ward, 616 Jefferson Ave., Venice, who heard a noise shortly after arriving home and saw a man crawling through a window on the porch.

Sherrod, who was taken into custody while riding a bicycle not far from the residence, allegedly threatened the arresting officer and members of his family.

He also tried to attack the officer while being placed in a cell and made threats against a second officer. In addition to burglary, Sherrod was charged with resisting arrest.

The Chicago City Ballet troupe will present performances at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, Sept. 19 and 20.

Sponsored by the Illinois Special Events Commission, the university's School of Fine Arts and Communications and the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums, the Sunday, Sept. 19, concert is scheduled in the Communications Building Theater at 8 p.m. A free performance for senior citizens will be given the following morning.

Maria Tallichet, known as America's first prima ballerina, will be featured during the performance. Maria Tallichet is credited with expanding the Chicago City Ballet into a touring company.

During the evening of music, the troupe will present its interpretations of "Raymonda Pas de Dix," "Jeux," and "Who's Got the Blues."

Tickets are $3 and may be reserved by telephoning the Office of Cultural Arts and University Museums at 1-692-2996.

Monday, Sept. 20, at 11 a.m. in the Communications Building theater, the dance troupe will present a special performance for a group of senior citizens, free of charge.

Senior citizens wishing to attend may gain admission at the door, or reserve tickets by calling 1-692-2996. The Monday performance will feature "Invitation to the Dance," "Pas de Trois" from "Paquita," and "Western Melodrama."

Members of the troupe will also talk with the audience after each presentation. The Chicago City Ballet will visit the SIUE campus as part of a limited tour of Central and Southern Illinois.

Blood typing labs merge

Full responsibility for HLA (human leukocyte antigen) typing in this metropolitan area has been assumed by the American Red Cross.

Missouri-Illinois Regional Red Cross Blood Services continues to operate its laboratory, 4050 Lindell Blvd., St. Louis.

In addition, it is assuming responsibility for the HLA laboratory housed on the second floor of Barnes Hospital. This facility, set up in 1976, was previously directed by the Barnes-Washington University staff.

Glenn Rodey, M.D., will be director of both sites. "Red Cross and Barnes Hospital are pleased to announce one regional HLA laboratory," said William V. Miller, chief executive officer of the St. Louis Bi-State Chapter, American Red Cross.

"With cost effectiveness being so important in the health care field, it makes sense to omit duplication of services," HLA typing, performed on white cells isolated from a blood sample, has been in use since the mid-1970s.

This complex typing finds exact matches between donors and recipients for kidney transplants, bone marrow transplants, for cancer patients receiving large quantities of white cells and platelets, and for other procedures.

Physicians and hospitals needing more information about HLA plans may call (314) 658-2121 from 8:30 to 4:30 weekdays; after hours and on weekends, the number is 658-2136.

FACES ATTEMPTED BURGLARY CHARGE

Eddie L. Thomas, St. Louis, was arrested last week after police saw him walking on the deck of a loaded railroad car in the Madison rail yards. An officer on a routine check called for assistance and when another officer arrived, the two searched for Thomas, who was found on the rear floorboard of a new auto, parked in the rail yard.

Authorities reported that Thomas attempted to back out of the auto and was seized by the officer on his left ankle. When he was searched, police found a 3½-inch folding blade knife in his jeans pocket with the blade opened. Thomas was charged with attempted burglary and unlawful use of a weapon.

CHICAGO CITY BALLET is coming to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for two shows, the last being a free performance for area senior citizens. Tickets for the first performance at 8 p.m. Sept. 19 are $3 and may be reserved by telephoning 1-692-2996. The free performance for seniors will be at 11 a.m. Sept. 20. Both are in the Communications Building theater.

'Ole' Scouters reunion Oct. 2

As part of the semi-annual Council Camporee of the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America, the "Ole"

Members of the "Ole" Scouters organization, whose involvement in the Scouting movement extends upward to 65 years, will present a special demonstration for the younger scouters on Scouting's past history in the Cahokia Mound Council.

REPORTS ACCIDENT DRIVER FLEES

John Motts, of 2421 Washington Ave. in Granite City, reported that his motorcycle was struck by a white Ford Thunderbird with Illinois license plates as he was southbound on Route 203 last week.

Motts and a passenger on his motorcycle, Cynthia Condray, of the same address, reported to authorities that someone in the vehicle threw a beer bottle at them when they attempted to stop the Thunderbird.

PICKUP TRUCK

In a burglary at the home of Tim Thompson, 2121 Grand Ave., last week, the thief stole a Panasonic VCR (television recording unit) valued at $600, a 19-inch color television worth $600, a bolt action rifle, $200, a compound bow, $150, and personal clothing items.

A 1967 Ford pickup truck, painted with red primer, which had been parked outside the house, also was stolen, police were advised.

Tiger Cubs — new family oriented Scouting concept

By VALERIE EVENDEN of the Press-Record

Tiger Cubs BSA, a innovative program of Scouting for the 7-year-old boy and a parent or other adult, is being introduced this fall by the Boy Scouts of America (BSA), according to top Scouting officials in Granite City.

The new concept in Scouting joins other BSA youth programs offered locally and elsewhere and is geared to broaden the range of Scouting activities available for younger boys and the modern family.

Tiger Cubs is an intensely family-oriented program, which lasts for one year, and emphasizes family participation, as well as Tiger Cub group activities, explains Ron Luebben, Cub Scouting chairman of the Cahokia Mound Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The program will give families a chance to do things together, a chance to have fun together, and, the process, an opportunity to grow closer to one another.

"These are the goals of the new program for the 7-year-old boy and a parent or other participating adult," Luebben said.

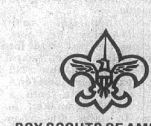

"The introduction of Tiger Cubs will mark the first time in its 72-year history that Scouting has offered a program to boys younger than 8 years old," the chairman advised.

He noted the new Scouting idea "is designed to build the history that Scouting has always been a part of Boy Scouts of America, but we are just using a new approach."

In the Tiger Cubs, each boy joins with an adult and will spend their year in the program participating as a team.

"We are emphasizing the word 'adult' as opposed to 'parent' for a special reason," Luebben said. He explained the participating adult, in most cases probably will be a parent, but the boy also can be joined by a grandparent, an aunt or uncle, an adult brother or sister, or even a neighbor.

"The program is organized this way because of the increasing number of nontraditional families that exist in the country today."

The program will give families a chance to do things together, a chance to have fun together, and, the process, an opportunity to grow closer to one another.

"These are the goals of the new program for the 7-year-old boy and a parent or other participating adult," Luebben said.

"The introduction of Tiger Cubs will mark the first time in its 72-year history that Scouting has offered a program to boys younger than 8 years old," the chairman advised.

In the Tiger Cubs, each boy joins with an adult and will spend their year that none of the badges or ranks that play a major role in traditional Cub and Boy Scout programs are featured in Tiger Cubs.

"Through Tiger Cubs, we are offering people new opportunities to do things with their boys and are supporting family life by encouraging the participants to bring the rest of the family into the action as well."

"We are also expanding Scouting's ability to build character by offering a program to younger boys," Luebben stated.

The Tiger Cub program was field-tested for more than a year in the midwestern states and is one of four new activities developed by the Boy Scouts of America for introduction this fall as part of the BSA's Foundations for Growth project.

Paul Mihalic, district chairman of the Unwahoo (Quad-Cities) District, this week said the Foundations for Growth program is the culmination of three years of research and planning.

"Our goal is to make Scouting even more relevant and appealing to modern youth," he explained.

Other components of the project include an enriched plan for second-year Cub Scouts, a new set of marketing tools for the BSA Explorer program for young adults and a "Today's Family" program that provides self-reliance skills to children from 5 to 11 years old who are members of single-parent or dual-parent families.

"Today's Family" program is the activity book "Prepared for Today," which helps to teach children 6 to 11 years old the self-reliance skills needed to cope with being left alone at home or in the neighborhood, and being asked to help with the burden of home care in a single-parent or two-job household.

"The book is designed so that a child goes through it with a parent or other adult and learns how to handle emergencies, how to fix a simple meal, how to park a car, and how to call for help."

"What we have done is pull together the various skills that parents want their children to know and we've assembled them in a way that allows the parent to instruct the child quickly and easily," he added.

Additional information concerning the Tiger Cub and other programs offered through the Boy Scouts of America will be made available at the annual School Night For Scouting, scheduled Thursday, Sept. 16, at 24 schools in Granite City, Madison and Venice, according to Bill Monahan, Boy Scout executive.

Parents, boys and other family members, who are interested in any aspect of the BSA program, are being encouraged to attend orientation meetings at their neighborhood school, he pointed out.

THE EMERGENCY
KEROSENE HEATER
YOU'LL WANT TO USE ALL WINTER
LONG

Portable Heat Mate provides temporary or continuous heat whenever, wherever you need it: in the shop, garage, basement, barn or cottage. Heat Mate is safe: has an automatic shut-off switch should the unit be accidentally knocked over. It's clean-burning—no fumes or odor. Heat Mate is reliable: just press a button and you have heat immediately. Doesn't depend on outside power. Heat Mate is smartly styled, too, with an attractive finish.
